

Puebla, México
del 23 al 26
octubre 2018

CONGRESO INTERNACIONAL
de la Asociación
Latinoamericana
de Población

POBLACIÓN
y DESARROLLO
SOSTENIBLE:

Políticas públicas y avances
en la medición sociodemográfica

Congreso de la Asociación
Latinoamericana de Población

Población y desarrollo sostenible:

Políticas públicas y avances
en la medición sociodemográfica

México

Ciudad de Puebla

del 23 al 26

octubre

2018

The Asociación Latinoamericana de Población (ALAP) is pleased to invite its associate members, as well as researchers, public officials, students, members of civil and international organizations, and all those interested in population studies, to its 8th International Conference, "Population and sustainable development: Public policies and developments in socio-demographic measurement." The Conference will take place in Puebla, Mexico, from October 23 to 26, 2018.

Venue : Universidad Iberoamericana Puebla

Main theme:

The 8th ALAP Conference has adopted as main theme: "Population and sustainable development: Public policies and developments in socio-demographic measurement" considering the upcoming 2020 Round of national demographic censuses; and the need for timely and essential data to monitor the commitments adopted by countries in the region towards the Agenda on Population and Regional Development (Montevideo Consensus) and the Global Agenda (ICPD) and, in general terms, the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. Altogether, these international instruments –signed in 2013 and 2015, respectively–, have guided the development of numerous follow-up indicators for targets and action lines regarding population and development from a human rights perspective. This is, therefore, a broader, multifaceted concept that encompasses sustainable social, economic, and environmental development that ensures the multidimensional protection of human dignity.

Demography, as a discipline, is a key tool for governments, civil society organizations, and international agencies, providing specific knowledge to monitor and evaluate programs and actions aimed at improving the structural living conditions of populations in specific contexts. Production and analysis of timely and reliable data is essential to ensure quality studies, scientific progress and, mainly, solid evidence for public policy decision-makers. The Conference, therefore, aims at strengthening the dialogue between academics and those who produce information with governments, international agencies, civil society organizations, and the public.

More information: <http://www.alapop.org/alap/>

Key dates

DEC 15
2017

Launching of the Conference's webpage for
abstract submission

MARCH 5
2018
DEADLINE
EXTENDED
TO MARCH 19

Deadline for short and
longer abstract
submission

MAY 4
2018

Notification of
acceptance of abstracts
for presentation at
regular or poster sessions

MAY 4
2018

Start of registration at a discounted fee

JULY 31
2018

Deadline for full paper
submission and
discounted registration

SEPT 7
2018

Conference and
workshops program
available on website

Topics

1. Cities and territorial development
2. Demography of Afro-descendants and indigenous people
3. Historical Demography and family history
4. Family and nuptiality
5. Training in and teaching of Demography
6. Migration and mobility
7. Population and rights
8. Population and aging
9. Population and environment
10. Population and work
11. Demographic data production and projections
12. Sexual and reproductive health
13. Old and new diseases in Ibero-America
14. Social vulnerability
15. Mortality
16. Fertility
17. Other emerging issues in population

Guidelines for abstract submission, oral presentations and posters

Participants interested in submitting proposals for presentations at the Conference's regular sessions should visit the website: <http://registros sociales.unam.mx/registroiis/index.php/survey/index/sid/721215/newtest/Y/lang/es-MX> and follow the instructions for submission. Short abstracts (500 words) should be sent and longer abstracts (1,500 words) should be uploaded. The latter should include: objective, materials and methods, results and conclusions. Abstracts in Spanish, Portuguese and English will be accepted.

We encourage submission of studies of two or more countries in the region that compare local conditions. Each proposal should indicate the suggested research topic for inclusion, and also a second preferred topic. This will facilitate assigning and distributing the presentations among sessions. Similarly, the proposals should specify whether they are to be considered for oral presentation only, for poster presentation, or for both.

Registration fee and payments

Members are reminded of the importance to pay all membership fees due, a requirement to participate in the 8th Conference.

To pay outstanding membership fees, see the instructions at:
http://www.alapop.org/alap/files/docs/asociados/Instructivo_accesoWEB_Socios.pdf

If you have any questions, please write to: alap.finanzas@alapop.org

Conference registration fees:

	May 4 to 31 July, 2018	August 1 to 22 October, 2018	At the Conference
Professional member	US$120	US$ 150	US$ 180
Professional non-member	US$180	US$ 200	US$ 250
Student member	US$ 60	US$ 75	US$ 90
Student non-member	US$ 90	US$ 100	US$ 125

For further clarification related to the 8th International Conference, please write to:
8CongresoALAP@gmail.com

@ALAP_LA

@ALAPoblacion

<http://www.alapop.org/alap/>